

Key Resources and FAQs

Midyear Discussion – Performance @ GE Vernova

Key Resources

- Performance @ GE Vernova Homepage – The Watt
The home for all Performance @ GE Vernova content and resources – anything shared with employees and People Leaders will be provided here.
- Midyear Discussion Employee Guide
This guide gives you access to the slides shared in the training videos and will provide you with all of the help you'll need to complete the Midyear Discussion process. Please bookmark this important resource.
- Additional Help Needed – Worklife
The Employee Guide and FAQs will answer the most common questions or issues that arise during the Midyear Discussion process. If neither document answered your question, or you're having technical issues with Workday, reach out for support on WorkLife and click "Contact Us" and either submit a request or leverage chat where available. Be sure to reference your inquiry is regarding Performance.
- Amp
Amp is our internally-developed GenAI chatbot that can provide help and support during the Midyear Discussion process in a variety of ways. To learn more about how to use Amp in the Midyear Discussion process, review the training material or reference FAQ #16.
- People Leader Resources: The links below are only accessible for People Leaders.
 - People Leader Dashboard
Access the Performance @ GE Vernova dashboard via the new People Leader Insights Hub. From the Performance section, click on "Dashboard: Performance @ GE Vernova", which will default to a snapshot for your entire organization. You can also click on the Midyear tab to see more detailed data (leverage the filters at the top to either show just your direct reports or your entire organization if you have multiple layers underneath you).
 - Coach V
Coach V is our AI-powered coaching partner that is designed to support People Leaders in the moments that matter most. Coach V can provide real-time support via talk or chat in over 200 languages, 24/7. Leverage Coach V to guide you through the Midyear Discussion process where help is needed or desired. To learn more about how to use Coach V in the Midyear Discussion process, review the training material or reference FAQ #16.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

1. What is the purpose of a Midyear Discussion?

The Midyear Discussion provides us the opportunity to reflect on and gather feedback on our performance through the first half of the year, both against our Priorities and the GE Vernova Way. Specifically for Priorities, it's an opportunity to look at each Priority and determine if it should be adjusted, reprioritized, or eliminated completely. We also will assess our demonstration of the GE Vernova Way principles in our day-to-day work. Lastly, this is an opportunity to align on what actions are needed to successfully complete the remaining portion of the year. It's important to note that the Midyear Discussion is a performance conversation. Check in on career and growth aspirations if time permits, but career conversations should be separate and can occur any time of the year as needed.

2. What does demonstrating the GE Vernova Way mean?

As you complete your Midyear Discussion, review the principles and identify:

- Strength(s): Which principle's definition does your work style and behavior align with? How can this continue to be leveraged to drive impact?
- Opportunity(ies): Which principle(s) feels unfamiliar? How can you practice and strengthen this principle? Note, an opportunity does not mean the principle has not been appropriately demonstrated.

3. How do I access my Midyear Discussion self-evaluation in Workday?

Log into Workday and look for the "Self Evaluation: 2025 Midyear Discussion: [Your Name]" task in your Workday My Tasks/Awaiting Your Action. From there click Get Started.

4. Why are my priorities prepopulated in the Midyear Discussion self-evaluation?

Your priorities with a due date on or before the end of this year automatically load to save you the time of manually inputting them into the evaluation.

5. What if I want new priorities added to the Midyear Discussion?

From the Priorities section of the Midyear Discussion self-evaluation, click the "Add" button if you have additional priorities to include. Upon completion of this Midyear Discussion, newly added priorities will be automatically reflected in your active priorities, visible in the Performance section of your Profile.

6. What if one of the priorities prepopulated is no longer relevant? Or if I need to make updates to it?

Under each priority is a "Remove" button, so if the priority is no longer relevant, remove it from the Midyear Discussion. You can make updates to an existing priority title, description, due date, and/or milestones. Upon completion of this Midyear Discussion, updates made to existing priorities will be automatically reflected in your active priorities, visible in the Performance section of your Profile. Please note: if you do remove or edit a priority, ensure your People Leader is aware when you're having the Midyear Discussion conversation.

7. If I need help on how to do this in Workday, where can I go for examples?

There are step by step instructions for both the employee self-evaluation and the People Leader manager evaluation in the Midyear Discussion Employee Guide, accessible via this link or on the Performance @ GE Vernova page on the Watt.

8. When should I submit my self-evaluation?

Midyear Discussions need to be completed by July 31. Submit your self-evaluation in Workday within the first two weeks of July to provide your People Leader time to complete their manager evaluation and schedule the Midyear Discussion with you. Set aside dedicated time on your calendar (about an hour or so) to complete your self-evaluation.

9. When should the Midyear Discussion conversation occur?

People Leaders should schedule the Midyear Discussion conversation on or before July 31. Anticipate 30 – 60 minutes for the conversation.

10. How do I approach the process and discussion when things are not on track?

Seeking and providing actionable feedback is key to turning around performance when off track and it's critical that People Leaders work with their employees on an action plan. The plan should address support needed or countermeasures required. Once the action plan has been agreed upon, document the plan in the Midyear Discussion Manager and/or Employee comments section in Workday (or add as an attachment in the Supporting Documents section), to help monitor progress. See pages 10-12 of the Midyear Discussion Employee Guide for further guidance.

11. Is there training available on the Midyear Discussion?

Yes, all Performance @ GE Vernova trainings are available on-demand in Workday Learning in the following languages: English, French, German, Portuguese, Spanish, Hindi, Italian, Polish, Hungarian, Chinese, and Dutch.

12. Do new hires need to complete a Midyear Discussion?

All employees hired on or before March 31 are expected to complete a Midyear Discussion.

13. What happens if my Midyear Discussion is not submitted by the July 31 deadline?

Any incomplete Midyear Discussions will be cancelled in September in preparation for the Annual Review process.

14. What happens if I'm on leave during the Midyear Discussion window?

If you are on leave when the task is initiated in Workday, then you will need to manually initiate the task upon your return. Log into Workday and in the search bar, type Start My Performance. Select Start My Performance from the search results. From the Start My Performance screen, select Midyear Discussion for Review Template, January 1 for the Period Start Date, and December 31 for the Period End Date. Click Submit and then Get Started on the following screen.

15. I don't see the Midyear Discussion task in my Workday inbox, why is this?

Only Salaried, active employees (PB and above) hired on or before March 31 are required to complete the Midyear Discussion. If you are an Other Salaried or Hourly employee, or a new hire hired after March 31 who'd like to participate, you can manually initiate the task. Log into Workday and in the search bar, type Start My Performance. Select Start My Performance from the search results. From the Start My Performance screen, select Midyear Discussion for Review Template, January 1 for the Period Start Date, and December 31 for the Period End Date. Click Submit and then Get Started on the following screen.

16. Can I use AI tools to help with the Midyear Discussion process?

Specific guidance and prompts can be found on pages 13-15 of the Midyear Discussion Employee Guide. Employees and People Leaders may use Amp, GE Vernova's internal GenAI application, or Coach V, our AI-powered coaching tool available to People Leaders and Client HR (excluding OFS employees on SuccessFactors systems). The use of external AI tools is strictly prohibited, as feeding potentially sensitive company and employee specific information to an externally available GenAI tool for the purposes of crafting performance language creates the risk of reidentification or the inadvertent release of sensitive GEV information as the prompts are not secure or private. Note that employee-specific information such as a name, SSO or other individually identifying data (i.e. location or business segment) should not be used with Amp or Coach V. Job titles or function can be used if they are not used in combination with other identifying information mentioned above.

17. What happens if I switched jobs or People Leaders since the beginning of the year?

If you've had a role change, all roles performed in the company during the first six months of the year should be taken into consideration. Your current People Leader will work with the prior People Leader to gather performance input. If you've had a People Leader change, your current People Leader will work with the prior People Leader, their People Leader, and HR if applicable to gather performance input. Your Midyear Discussion will route to the People Leader in Workday at the time you submit the self-evaluation. In either case, take this opportunity to ensure alignment on priorities, and make any necessary adjustments.

18. What happens if I submitted my Midyear Discussion to my People Leader prematurely?

If you accidentally submitted your Midyear Discussion self-evaluation, reach out to your People Leader as he or she has the ability to send it back to you.